Play Waiting Game.

London, Monday, November 20.—The Irish Nationalists are playing a waiting game in the autumn session of Parliament. The osually turbulent little band, who sit below the gangway in the House of Commons, have kept themselves in hand so far, although they are deeply interested in the insurance bill, which is occupying all the time of the House.

They are quietly waiting for 1912. "Ireland's year," as they call it. Whill the rankers of the party are doing missionary work in the lobby, the leader, John Redmond, is busy explaining home rule to the people of England, for the Nationalists say that when the English really know what freland demands opposition to it will fade away.

To Aid State in Effort to Convict Wife of Murdering Charles Patterson.

Denver, Col. November 26.—The second week of the trial of Mrs. Gertrude Gibson Patterson for the murder of her husband, Charles A. vatterson, will begin to-morrow with the prosecution having closed its direct case and the defense having placed on the stand its most material witness—Mrs. Patterson. The defense expects to introduce witnesses to corroborate Mrs. Patterson. The defense expects to introduce witnesses to corroborate the woman's alleged abuse by her husband. An alleged eyewitness also will be placed on the stand by the defense who is expected to corroborate Mrs. Patterson's statements as to how the shooting was done. The defense will then rest.

In reductal the State will place Mrs. Mary K. Patterson, mother of the dead husband, on the stand, and it is exhected that she will testify as to the physical soundness of her son prior to the time he met Getrude Gibson. The prosecution also will attempt to introduce numerous letters written by Patterson to his brother, a Calcago attorney, in which he freely described his private affairs, and probably will attempt to introduce what purports to be the dead man's diary, written in the form of daily notes or letters to his mother.

This diary, which was found among the dead man's effects, has been in the possession of Special Prosecutor Benson from the first, and he made frequent reference to it in his cross-examination of Mrs. Patterson. In writing to his mother, July 21 last, Patterson said:

"When you say in your letter. 'Oh, how I wish she would only act squarely and leave you entirely and not be a snake in the grass,' you said a whole lot. If ever there was a woman who was a demon on earth in her home, and they make a state. and then makes outsiders believe and then makes outsiders believe she was terribly maltreated, it is her; the lies she tells and the way she can purr and work on people's, feelings makes outsiders believe me a devil."
